

Business-Cockpit – Successfully deployed

Your operating business at a glance

The Challenge

Certainly your company also employs classical ERP- and MRP-systems. These frequently provide a large number of standard functions which are - in day-to-day business - more obstructive than supportive; significant data or evaluations according to your demands, however, are never found. Individual lists and measurements can only be realized at considerable costs and efforts - if ever.

The Solution

We deliver your customized product: Business Cockpit, realized by Bäumer & Heinen, has proved to support and improve performance of administrative processes many times. According to the requirements, inventory controlling, order processing and delivery performance are visualized and made measurable. Within previous application fields, all set goals were realized and stabilized sustainably within shortest time by the Cockpit's support. The entire implementation is conducted by Bäumer & Heinen; the method for effective and efficient process control, which we have developed from experience, will create transparency in your company.

The Strategy

The efforts in your company amount to a few days only:

- Demand analysis and definition of key figures: mib / your management
- Carrying out process interviews: mib (1 day/process)
- Interface analysis: mib
- Interface programming: mib
- Programming of work packages: mib
- Implementation of pilot application: mib
- Adjustment and fine-tuning: mib / your staff
- Employee training: by mib

Your Advantage

With support by your experience and expertise, we implement a customized management information system based upon your process requirements on-site.

You will receive a system cockpit which is clear and transparent and can be improved by you. Your existing systems will remain untouched and premier for the company.

Act Now

The sooner these opportunities are available for you the sooner you can make right decisions on a solid base and realize them. All previous cockpit installations focused - apart from system set-up - upon simultaneous optimization of business processes. Another advantage is that expenditures for purchase of customized software can be amortized according to their economic useful life. Benefit from the triple advantage now.

Our Expertise

Bäumer & Heinen unites long-standing expertise from consulting small and mid-size businesses with long-term project experience for renowned national and international groups. Our company has specialized on optimization of the business processes „production logistics“ and „client order processing“.
